

The World Humanitarian Summit organised in Istanbul, May 2016
Convened by UN SG Ban Ki Moon. 9,000 participants from around the world to support a new shared Agenda for Humanity and take action to prevent and reduce human suffering.

The Summit generated more than 3000 commitments to action.

IFRC Council of Delegates adopted a resolution during 32 Int Conf in support of WHS

Millennium Development Goals (MDGs)

- MDGs managed to mobilize support for a global development agenda
- Developed by a small group of experts and not member state driven
- Too much aid focused/donor driven and
- Overlooked the issue of inequality
- Lack of implementation of Principle 10 of Rio Commitment regarding “public participation” into the MDGs at all levels (local, national, regional, global) during various phases starting from analysis to planning, budget allocation and implementation etc...)

The eight Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) – which ranged from halving extreme poverty to halting the spread of HIV/AIDS and providing universal primary education by 2015 were adopted in NY 2000. Now to be replaced by SDG

From MDGs to SDGs

- MDGs were a product / reflection of the understanding of development as 'human development'.

- The MDGs placed great weight on social goals without considering economic development (re. sustainability)

The aid-driven improvements in and expansion of health services are noteworthy achievements in many poor countries, but without economic resources they lack sustainability

- Establishing post-2015 goals was an outcome of the Rio+20 summit in 2012, which mandated the creation of an open working group involving representative from 70 countries in consultation process for the development of SDGs.

- During consultation process, four threats to global sustainability, peace and security were identified: (a) violence (b) conflict (c) disasters (d) climate change.

- Other shortcomings of the MDGs were also addressed, especially around ownership

- The Post 2015 SDGs to go beyond aid and address three pillars of Sustainable Development: Economic, Social, Environmental
