Translator Gator is an online game website which involves crowdsourcing. The game can be played on laptop and mobile phone. The game translate relevant keywords from relevant topics. The online platform is filled with a lot of information hence, it is considered 'noisy'. The game helps you to break down big data to relevant data or topics. There are four stage; translate, synonym, categorisation and evaluate. • There are only three labs in the world. The Jakarta branch is a joint initiative with the UN. This game is launched in 11 countries (10 Asean countries and Sri Lanka) and has a total of 28 languages. One is able to win prizes if the other users agree to their translation. The users will be able to gain points during their research. Ms Yulistina seeks support from other societies to try out the game and gives feedbacks on it. 	Yulistina Riyadi
