The Resilience House Model

Safer and More Resilient Communities in Southeast Asia

The foundation: Strong National Society development, Red Cross and Red Crescent youth networks, volunteer management, resource mobilization and communication with communities and decision-makers

Cross-Cutting Issues including:

- Climate change
- Gender & diversity
- Disaster law
- People on the move
- Humanitarian diplomacy

Integrating climate change into health and disaster risk reduction programming
Accounting for differences in gender, age, disability and cultural perspectives
Strengthening resilience through the regulation of international disaster relief and risk reduction
Addressing the rights and needs of migrants, irrespective of their legal status
Persuading decision-makers to act in the interests of the vulnerable, raising community voice
