1. Organizational context

Within South-East Asia, gender inequality remains great a challenge that negatively impacts human development and economic growth. It not only contributes to discrimination and exclusion from access to resources, public services, education, health care services and employment, and to gender-based violence but it also increases the vulnerability of women, girls, men and boys of certain groups. IFRC recognizes the importance of incorporating a Gender and Diversity framework into all policies and programs because there is substantial evidence worldwide (and within the region) of its negative impacts on women, girls, boys and men when humanitarian assistance is not adequately sensitive to Gender or Diversity considerations. Protecting and increasing Gender and Diversity equality is an integral part of IFRC’s goal to promote respect for diversity and human dignity, and to reduce intolerance, discrimination and social exclusion. When Gender and Diversity equality is actively promoted, it can positively transform and enhance individual lives as well as societies as a whole. By advancing Gender equality and embracing Diversity, the impact of many other humanitarian problems can be reduced.

2. Strategic direction

In an attempt to respond to the challenge of Gender and Diversity inequality, IFRC has developed the IFRC Policy on Gender 2009\(^1\) and the IFRC Strategic Framework on Gender and Diversity Issues 2013–2020\(^2\). Aligned with IFRC Strategy 2020, the policy and strategic framework apply to the IFRC Secretariat and all RCRC National Societies, which guide the Gender and Diversity work within the RCRC Movement and provide specific direction to ensure that its actions are non-discriminatory towards women, girls, boys and men, and to promote Gender equality and respect for Diversity throughout all of its work, with the aim of contributing towards building the resilience and potential of individuals, their families and wider communities. Their basis is rooted in IFRC’s humanitarian mandate to prevent and alleviate human suffering without discrimination and to protect human dignity.
