Youth Empowerment in Community (YEC) Programme Guide

1. Introduction

ASEAN is a region with 370 million youth which covers 60% of population: 620 million. It has 11 Southeast Asia Red Cross and Red Crescent societies in 11 countries such as Brunei, Cambodia, Lao, Indonesia, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Vietnam and Timor Leste with 4.6 million youth and 1 million volunteers.

The main challenge raised by the ASEAN Youth through a discussion in the Youth Forum at the various programme are uncertainty or lack of efficiency in those following areas;

1) Youth role and positioning in the ASEAN Economic Community.
2) Cross-cultural understanding to be resilient to the western influence
3) Dealing with social issues
4) Professionalism and Education for job opportunities

Red Cross Youth in ASEAN also addressed Red Cross Youth challenges as follows;

1) Lack of right skill such as facilitation and peer education which will open minds and enhance burning desires for positive social change. (can address above two issues 2)3)

2) Inspirational opportunities in the access to community actions (no adult directed, but youth-led/design) and supportive environment (funding, technical support) (can address the above issue 1)

3) Recognize the volunteerism and achievement of youth action { (can address the above issue 4) }

To provide solutions for those above challenges and address/inspire youth for a positive change, IFRC CCST Bangkok office provide with this guide for the youth empowerment programme in communities/schools.

Youth Empowerment in Community (YEC) Programme Guide Pilot version was designed for a purpose of youth empowerment at communities to deeply address the issues of communities and inspire their positive change through youth innovative solutions by enhancing the knowledge, practicing in the field and gaining fresh perspective about the community challenges in a more peaceful and resilient way. The programme has four steps; Step 1; Trainings on youth such as Youth as Agents of Behavioural Change (YABC), Step 2;
YEC Pilot Guide

Field school and Practice in the field, Step 3; Community/School Actions, Step 4; Monitoring, peer learning and expansion.

It has a participant-centred, experiential learning approach which leads to creative platforms. It supports youth to discuss the social issues by addressing/identifying specific gaps/issues and their root causes in their existing knowledge and practice, giving all possible solutions to such issues by their own, through sharing their personal experiences and to demonstrate in communities/schools through a creative platform; theatre, dance, music, arts and sports activities. In a second phase, Children and youths collect the feedback from the community/school and reflect together to make a ‘from their heart to their mind’ changing journey to become responsible members of community challenges.

Youth on the move!

Dear youth leaders, if you decide to do a community action today, start to refer this guide. This guide will help you to maximize your capacity and skills in a creative and inspirational way.

Good Luck everybody!

2. Steps and Methodology

(Since it is the first-time youth-led activity and it needs small technical support for some steps. Some NS youth departments with inexperience, often request a support from the IFRC on coaching and implementation one or two times for them to gain experiences and feel confident to continue and roll out. This steps and annexes can substitute for those technical supports from IFRC)

➢ Step1: YABC Peer Educators’ Training or similar Youth trainings -existing one at the National or Global level:

(This Step is optional cause it needs external support such as trainer and financial resources. This is fortunate that most of ASEAN NSs have done YABC PE trainings)

A. YABC Peer Educators carry on YABC trainings for their peers with the support of trainers
B. YABC participants develop action plans to implement YABC toolkit (they learnt from training) for their community or schools. This is the end of YABC module carrying on at the global level with the support of Facilitators team.
C. YABC Focal point in each NS may follow up and monitor their actions in the proposed planning period.
YEC Pilot Guide

➢ Step 2: Field school and practice in the field

A. Organise a team of facilitators consisting of 2-3 people (YABC youth or non YABC Youth leaders) and select most priority target community or school (already in mind or planned by branches or HQ), make an assessment in that target (see annex 1: Youth Assessment Form)

B. Based on the assessment, discuss with community or school to organise the Youth event. Explain the event will address the root causes of issues, provide suggestive solutions and transformation of mindset, attitude and behaviour of audience into positive and inspirational way. Issues are such as social exclusion, gender inequality, violence, health and hygiene, disaster risks and environmental problems, unhealthy behaviours; drinking, smoking and discrimination.

C. By confirming the tentative date of event with stakeholder, develop an agenda for gathering the core group. Agenda can have three things; Introduction, Input Session on the issue from facilitators team, Discussion and Solution (see annex 2: Youth Core Group Agenda and Community Event Programme)

D. Select the core group (school or university) who can support the action in an effective way and call peers or alumni for the forum. By confirming the tentative date for the core group forum, prepare and practice on facilitation

E. Prepare for logistical arrangement (stationaries, transportation, snacks, dress code, practicalities).

F. Convening the forum for the core group youth, and review the Core group practice. (see annex 3: Facilitation and Review Notes).

➢ Step 3: Community/School Action

A. By confirming the date and time of event with the target community/school, provide the programme to the head of commune or school, prepare for logistic and travel arrangement (stationaries, transportation, snacks, prize, dress code, practical guideline for the core group)

B. Organise an event prepared by core group and facilitate feedback from audience. (see annex 4: Example of MC Script)

C. Monitoring and evaluation on activity in the community and recap/fix the mistakes of the one and plan for further communities. (see annex 5: Evaluation and planning form)

➢ Step 4: Reporting and Peer learning, expansion

A. Team leader is responsible for reporting and send two copies of report by email to his/her own branch/HQ and IFRC Bangkok CCST Youth and Volunteering officer (Kumju.ho@ifrc.org; +66-84-427-7330). (see annex 6: Reporting format)
B. With the analysis of activity carried by youth, IFRC and NS can support for further expansion to other community, branches in district, provinces and nationwide.

C. IFRC will allocate those youths (who gained experiences from the implementation of YEP activities in their country) to support other NSs by taking a role of IFRC technical support. However, they need to practice a lot in their community or school and be confident to coach other NSs. And in addition, they should speak fluent English to communicate clearly with the requested NSs.

3. Impact of the programme

This programme has a great impact since it is led by YABC youths or Youth leaders who have a will to change and designed by them with core-group youth through peer to peer support.

This programme address the root causes of community problem in an inspirational, creative and reflective way rather than saying “Problem! Problem! Problem!” and finally bring the solutions from the eye level of youth to the community people. It can open the eyes and mindset of youth as key agents of change and will bring the lesson to community people who may always resort to external support or blame for others on their problems.

This programme is the most cost effective and sustainable on its own since its outcome is specific, measurable and achievable within short period and suits with the character of youth who are creative and quick runners.

Finally, this programme will encourage youths to be supported, and to provide support in return and participate as responsible members of schools and communities in the RC programmes including Disaster Risk Reduction/resilience building. In addition, those core group youths will be also seen as role models within their schools, communities and this model will be advocated into other NSs for replication and regional youth network up to global level as one of best examples for youth development and capacity building.
